

Anthony of the Desert       17 January       Anthony of the Desert       17 January         4.356       Desert Monastic       4.356       Desert Monastic         * Gave avey all his possessions to take up exangelical       * Gave avey all his possessions to take up exangelical       * Gave avey all his possessions to take up exangelical         * Leved fairs a hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits       * S. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticim       * Gave avey all his possessions to take up exangelical         * Leved to be a hundred years old       * Chued to be a hundred years old       * Admansaus wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Pauls)         * Hued to be a hundred years old       * Monastic on S. Anthony       * Admansaus wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Pauls)         * His doctines unity was pure and unimpachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without covardice, writhout sets compact without covardice, writhout covardice, writhout covardice, writhout covardice, writhout sets compact without covardice, writhout sets compact without covardice, writhout covardi
<ul> <li>Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical Provide the provide the pro</li></ul>		-		-
<ul> <li>poverty</li> <li>poverty</li></ul>	d. 356 Desert Monastic	d. 356	Desert Monastic	d. 356	Desert Monastic
<ul> <li>Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing".</li> <li>Athanasius on St.Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without covardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-complacent, Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of the deavenly, without covardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-complacent, Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of the deavenly, without self-complacent, Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of confidence, divine pace, cheerfulness, and valorous-ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast."</li> <li>Anthony of the Desert 17 January d. 356 Desert Monastic</li> <li>"Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty."</li> <li>Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing."</li> <li>Anthony of the Desert 17 January d. 356 Desert Monastic</li> <li>"Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty."</li> <li>Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits."</li> <li>"St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism</li> <li>"Athanasius on S.Anthony</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing."</li> <li>Athanasius on S.Anthony</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing."</li> <li>Athanasius on S.Anthony</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing."</li> <li>Athanasius on S.Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without covardice, without goo, and the desert monasticism</li> <li>"Athanasius on S.Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without covardice, without goo, and without formality, without self-complacency. Superstition is abject and crouchin</li></ul>	poverty ★ Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits ★ St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism	poverty ★ Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits ★ St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism		poverty ★ Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits ★ St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism rejoicing" Athanasius on St. Anthony "Isi doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable: and his temper is high and heavenly, without covardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt it distruss God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast." John Henry Newman on Anthony THEOLOGY CAUSE #1 You Anthony of the Desert 17 January d. 356 Teologing" Anthony stile derive construction is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt is distruss God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast." John Henry Newman on Anthony THEOLOGY CAUSE #1 You Anthony of the Desert 17 January d. 356 Desert Monastic * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty * Lived first as hermic, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits * Grave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty * Lived first as hermic, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty * Lived first as hermic, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty * Lived first as hermic, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty * Lived first as hermic, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty * Lived first as hermic thermit preceded him in desert monasticism * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty * Lived first as hermic thermit preceded him in desert monasticism * Gave away		,
"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distruss God, and dreads the powers of exil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- nethusiast."       "His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of tooghts of guilt; distruss God, and dreads the powers of exil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- nethusiast."         John Henry Newman on Anthony TRUCOCY CAUSE #1       V03         Anthony of the Desert 17 January d. 356       I7 January d. 356       Anthony of the Desert 17 January d. 356       I7 January d. 356         Sc Rav the Hernit preceded him in desert * Shant Hernit preceded him in de	rejoicing?"			"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; li distrusts God, and dreads the powers of exil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast." John Henry Newman on Anthony THEOLOGY CANDS #1 V 0.9 Anthony of the Desert 17 January d. 356 Teater the present of the peace of t	Athanasius on St. Anthony	Athanasius on St. Anthony	asius on St. Anthony		Athanasius on St. Anthony
THEOLOGY CARDS #1       V 0.3       THEOLOGY CARDS #1       V 0.3       THEOLOGY CARDS #1       V 0.3         Anthony of the Desert       I7 January Desert Monastic       Anthony of the Desert       I7 January Desert Monastic         * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty       I 356       Desert Monastic       Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty       I Seare away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty       I Seare away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty       I Seare away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty         * Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits       St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism       Mathanasius wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Paul's)       * Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits         * Lived to be a hundred years old       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       "Who ever met him gri	and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an	"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an		and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an
Anthony of the Desert       17 January         d.356       Desert Monastic         * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty       d.356         * Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits       * Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty         * St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism       * Athanasius wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Paul's)         * Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits       * St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism         * Athanasius wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Paul's)       * Lived forst as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits         * Lived to be a hundred years old       * Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"       Athanasius on St. Anthony         "His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without covardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-complacency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; ti distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous-ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast."       "His doctrine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous-ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast."	John Henry Newman on Anthony	John Henry Newman on Anthony		John Henry Newman on Anthony
d. 356Desert Monasticd. 356Desert Monasticd. 356Desert Monastic* Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical povertyFile of the series as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits* Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty* Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty* Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty* Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits* Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty* Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits* Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty* Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits* St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism* St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism* Athanasius wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Paul's)* Lived to be a hundred years old* Lived to be a hundred years old* Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?'' Athanasius son St. Anthony* Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?'' Athanasius son St. Anthony* His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-compla- cency. Superstition is abject and crouching it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorous- ness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast.''* Hind Hermit preceded him in desert monasti	THEOLOGY CARDS #1 V 0.9	THEOLOGY CARDS #1	V 0.9	THEOLOGY CARDS #1	V 0.9
<ul> <li>poverty</li> <li>Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits</li> <li>St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism</li> <li>A thanasius wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Paul's)</li> <li>Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"</li> <li>Athanasius on St. Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-complacency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorousness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast."</li> <li>poverty</li> <li>Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits</li> <li>St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism</li> <li>Athanasius wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Paul's)</li> <li>Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?"</li> <li>Athanasius on St. Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-complacency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorousness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast."</li> </ul>
		-		Anthony of the Desert	3 1
	<ul> <li>d. 356 Desert Monastic</li> <li>Gave away all his possessions to take up evangelical poverty</li> <li>Lived first as hermit, then in 305 became head of informal cluster of hermits</li> <li>St. Paul the Hermit preceded him in desert monasticism</li> <li>Athanasius wrote Anthony's life (Jerome wrote Paul's)</li> <li>Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and failed to go away rejoicing?" Athanasius on St. Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure and unimpeachable; and his temper is high and heavenly, without cowardice, without gloom, without formality, without self-complacency. Superstition is abject and crouching, it is full of thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, and dreads the powers of evil. Anthony at least had nothing of this, being full of confidence, divine peace, cheerfulness, and valorousness, be he (as some men may judge) ever so much an enthusiast." John Henry Newman on Anthony</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>d. 356</li> <li>Gave away all his possessions to poverty</li> <li>Lived first as hermit, then in 305 informal cluster of hermits</li> <li>St. Paul the Hermit preceded him monasticism</li> <li>Athanasius wrote Anthony's life</li> <li>Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>"Who ever met him grieving and farejoicing?"</li> <li>Athanasius on St. Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure an and his temper is high and heavenly without gloom, without formality, vicency. Superstition is abject and crthoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, a of evil. Anthony at least had nothir of confidence, divine peace, cheerfiness, be he (as some men may judgenthusiast."</li> </ul>	Desert Monastic take up evangelical became head of m in desert (Jerome wrote Paul's) ailed to go away d unimpeachable; y, without cowardice, without self-compla- rouching, it is full of and dreads the powers ng of this, being full ulness, and valorous-	<ul> <li>Anthony of the Desert d. 356</li> <li>★ Gave away all his possessions to poverty</li> <li>★ Lived first as hermit, then in 309 informal cluster of hermits</li> <li>★ St. Paul the Hermit preceded hi monasticism</li> <li>★ Athanasius wrote Anthony's life</li> <li>★ Lived to be a hundred years old</li> <li>* Who ever met him grieving and for rejoicing?"</li> <li>Athanasius on St. Anthony</li> <li>"His doctrine surely was pure ar and his temper is high and heavenl without gloom, without formality, cency. Superstition is abject and ci thoughts of guilt; it distrusts God, i of evil. Anthony at least had nothin of confidence, divine peace, cheerf ness, be he (as some men may judg enthusiast."</li> </ul>	Desert Monastic b take up evangelical 5 became head of m in desert (Jerome wrote Paul's) ailed to go away d unimpeachable; y, without cowardice, without self-compla- rouching, it is full of and dreads the powers ng of this, being full ulness, and valorous-	