

CONSTANTINE

CONSTANTINE

CONSTANTINE

CONSTANTINE

CONSTANTINE

CONSTANTINE

Constantine
d. 337

21 May, Orthodox
Emperor

- * Vision of cross before Battle of Milvian Bridge
- * With Licinius, issued Edict of Milan in 313, decreeing toleration of Christianity, restoring confiscated property, and recognizing Sunday as a holiday
- * Early interest in Donatist problems in Africa
- * Summoned Council of Nicæa, 325
- * Actions as Emperor suggest ambiguous relation to Christian faith
- * Received baptism on his death-bed from Arian Bishop Eusebius of Nicomedia

Εν Τουτω Νικα

In Hoc Signo Vincas

THEOLOGY CARDS #15

V 0.95

Constantine
d. 337

21 May, Orthodox
Emperor

- * Vision of cross before Battle of Milvian Bridge
- * With Licinius, issued Edict of Milan in 313, decreeing toleration of Christianity, restoring confiscated property, and recognizing Sunday as a holiday
- * Early interest in Donatist problems in Africa
- * Summoned Council of Nicæa, 325
- * Actions as Emperor suggest ambiguous relation to Christian faith
- * Received baptism on his death-bed from Arian Bishop Eusebius of Nicomedia

Εν Τουτω Νικα

In Hoc Signo Vincas

THEOLOGY CARDS #15

V 0.95

Constantine
d. 337

21 May, Orthodox
Emperor

- * Vision of cross before Battle of Milvian Bridge
- * With Licinius, issued Edict of Milan in 313, decreeing toleration of Christianity, restoring confiscated property, and recognizing Sunday as a holiday
- * Early interest in Donatist problems in Africa
- * Summoned Council of Nicæa, 325
- * Actions as Emperor suggest ambiguous relation to Christian faith
- * Received baptism on his death-bed from Arian Bishop Eusebius of Nicomedia

Εν Τουτω Νικα

In Hoc Signo Vincas

THEOLOGY CARDS #15

V 0.95

Constantine
d. 337

21 May, Orthodox
Emperor

- * Vision of cross before Battle of Milvian Bridge
- * With Licinius, issued Edict of Milan in 313, decreeing toleration of Christianity, restoring confiscated property, and recognizing Sunday as a holiday
- * Early interest in Donatist problems in Africa
- * Summoned Council of Nicæa, 325
- * Actions as Emperor suggest ambiguous relation to Christian faith
- * Received baptism on his death-bed from Arian Bishop Eusebius of Nicomedia

Εν Τουτω Νικα

In Hoc Signo Vincas

THEOLOGY CARDS #15

V 0.95

Constantine
d. 337

21 May, Orthodox
Emperor

- * Vision of cross before Battle of Milvian Bridge
- * With Licinius, issued Edict of Milan in 313, decreeing toleration of Christianity, restoring confiscated property, and recognizing Sunday as a holiday
- * Early interest in Donatist problems in Africa
- * Summoned Council of Nicæa, 325
- * Actions as Emperor suggest ambiguous relation to Christian faith
- * Received baptism on his death-bed from Arian Bishop Eusebius of Nicomedia

Εν Τουτω Νικα

In Hoc Signo Vincas

THEOLOGY CARDS #15

V 0.95

Constantine
d. 337

21 May, Orthodox
Emperor

- * Vision of cross before Battle of Milvian Bridge
- * With Licinius, issued Edict of Milan in 313, decreeing toleration of Christianity, restoring confiscated property, and recognizing Sunday as a holiday
- * Early interest in Donatist problems in Africa
- * Summoned Council of Nicæa, 325
- * Actions as Emperor suggest ambiguous relation to Christian faith
- * Received baptism on his death-bed from Arian Bishop Eusebius of Nicomedia

Εν Τουτω Νικα

In Hoc Signo Vincas

THEOLOGY CARDS #15

V 0.95